The interment followed in the Sun-

COMMERCIAL CLUB CONSIDERS IMPORTANT MATTERS

A blue sky committee to protect local investors from wildcat stock schemes will be appointed by John T. Collins, president of the Paris Commercial Club, within the next few days. It was announced at a meeting of the directors of the Club held Wednesday night, at the Bourbon-Agricultural Bank and Trust Co. The committee will also serve to pass on schemes of solicitors and advertisers, and all members of the Club will require the sanction of the committee on such schemes before subscribing to them.

The meeting of the directors was called primarily for a conference with William E. Hacker, secretary-manager, who arrived a few days ago. The directors discussed organization plans and it was decided to proceed as rapidly as possible with the program of organization. Mr. Collins appointed directors for the three departments as follows: Organization Affairs, Ed. Gorey; Public Affairs, John J. Williams; Business Affairs, M. P. Collier. Mr. Gorey will appoint chairman for committees on entertainment, publicity, finances and membership within the next day or two.

The organization of the departments of public and business affairs will await the tabulation of the referendum, which have been mailed to the entire membership asking what projects, in their opinion, the Commercial Club should undertake. Mr. Hacker is mailing letters to the membership urging the immediate return of these referenda in order that the organization work can proceed immediately.

A membership meeting will be called within the next eight or ten days, and at this time it is expected the full program of work, based on the referendum, will be announced. It is planned to provide some excellent features of entertainment at this meeting, as well as to hold a discussion of civic problems.

The directors at their meeting Wednesday night considered the matter of securing permanent quarters, but arrived at no definite conclusion. Mr. Collins appointed John J. Williams and C. K. Thomas as a committee to locate a suitable office. Arrangements have been made whereby the Club will use a portion of the Red Cross office in the First National Bank building temporarily.

LIEUT. LOT D. YOUNG'S ADDRESS TO "ORPHAN BRIGADE."

Lieut. Lot D. Young, of Paris, who was one of the most gallant followers of the daring Confederate chieftain, General John Hunt Morgan, in the many memorable engagements during the Civil War, in which the Orphan Brigade participated, delivered a notable address to the members of the organization, at Xalapa Farm, on Friday during the reunion. Lieut. Young's address was an eloquent effort, delivered with the impressiveness due to the occasion. The address is published hereewith in full:

"Old Comrades. Ladies and Gentlemen: "Thanking my friend, Mr. Williams for his very flattering and complimentary introduction to the members of my own household and my own people.

"And while not accustomed to talking in public, yet by reason of the sacred name of 'Old Orphan' and the privileges sometimes accorded that name I have no apologies to offer for attempting to talk before this audience, nor do I believe any are required. Especially since we see that material for speech-making, or anything else for that matter, from the ranks of these 'Old Orphans' has at last become very limited. And looking over this assemblage of old veterans we look in vain for many familiar faces whose presence forty or fifty years ago furnished such good cheer, comradeship and inspiration upon occasions of this kind and whose absence today tells of the mutability of time and the uncertainties of life. But thank God there are still a few of us left to renew recollections of comradeship and recount some of the thrilling and exciting experiences of the past. These few familiar faces and the memory of those who fell in the bloody conflict, whose voices echo from the shores of eternity, are suggestive of the associations of almost 60 years ago, and stir within the memory and heart, recollections of the most perilous and exciting times in our country's history. We were then making history, we are to, and in a sense as it were, reviewing that history. But what shall I say upon this occasion relative to that history and to these perilous and exciting times, and to what shall I refer? Shall I attempt to refer in detail to the many interesting and exciting incidents, terrible scenes, hardships and dangers, which makes the history of this immortal little band 'The Orphan Brigade'? I fear to attempt this would mean failure for want of time and ability and to refer to any particular incident would doubtless be uninteresting to this audience as well as unsatisfactory to myself. Therefore, I shall indulge for a few moments only, in a rambling and disconnected way a few thoughts and recollections illustrative of these perilous and exciting times. And by reason of my inexperience in matters of this kind, I shall appeal to the charity of my audience to excuse or overlook, whatever of failure I may make to interest or entertain them.

"The history of this little band of Kentuckians has been so often referred to and so ably and eloquently described, by soldiers, historians and statesmen, that it would be presumption in me to even attempt a repetition of its history or add to its renown. But somehow, in some mysterious and inexplicable way, the subject and the occasion appeals to my feelings and pride and I cannot refrain from making the attempt, ludicrous as it appears to myself. And it is to the more somber and pathetic phase of the subject rather than the tragic and historic, that I shall devote the few moments of time that propriety would seem to suggest.

"Who, but the old, the very old, of this audience, composed largely as it is of the sons and daughters of those who lived in the days of the rebellion, as some would say, can remember the anguish of the parting scenes of those dreadful times, the last goodbye spoken, the last affectionate kiss, upon the cheek of the dear boy by the loving mother or devoted sister, and the turning away in sorrow with misgivings of the old father, as the last farewells were being spoken? Who, but the old, can remember with what anxiety, fear and dread, every item of news from the theater of war, from the front, as we old soldiers would say, was awaited and how anxious these old mothers and fathers were regarding the fate of their boys; information from whom at any moment, might bring the sad, the dreadful news, that the dear one had fallen? But, who could comfort and console the bleeding heart of the dear old mother, when she received the sad, the dreadful message that her dear boy was numbered among the slain, and upon whose many torn eyes would never again

WILL FINALLY PROBATED

The will of Col. John Cunningham, a veteran of the Mexican and Civil wars, and one of Bourbon county's representative citizens a half-century ago, was admitted to probate in the County Court in Paris, Monday. The document was dated September 19, 1889, a few months prior to the death of testator. It bequeaths all of his personal, mixed and real property to his widow, Mrs. Lavinia Cunningham, who survives him.

CITY REGISTRATION PUTS CRIMP IN REPUBLICANS

The fond hopes of the managers of the Republican campaign in this city for rolling up a majority in the registration carried out Tuesday suffered a severe crimp, when the Democrats pulled out victory to the tune of $15 majority. Through the efforts of the women, and due to their hearty response to the appeals of the Democratic campaign managers and the local press not to fail to register, the victory was achieved over what for a time threatened to assume serious proportions.

The registration began early, and all through the day large numbers of women, even those whom it had been confidently predicted by the Republicans, "would not mix in politics," came bravely to the different polling places and exercised their newly-acquired right of suffrage. And when the last became generally known that the colored women of the city had been swarming to the polls, there was a still heartier response. The women laid aside their work and went to the polls for registration.

It was estimated that at least ninety per cent. of the women of Paris were registered Tuesday, at least sixty per cent. registering in the early hours of the morning. About 95 per cent. of the colored women registered, according to the statement made Wednesday night by a voter to register at any place in the city was Mrs. Nannie Randsall, of Pleasant street, now in her eighty-third year. The registration figures were as follows: Total registration, 3,552; Democratic, 2,172; Republican, 1,337; Independent, 21; Socialists, 3. Democratic majority, $15. These figures indicate a net gain over the combined October registration in 1919, of 1,957, indicating that fully as many women registered Tuesday as did men. The registration by precincts follows:

Precincts.	Dem.	Rep.	Ind.
No. 1	238	61	5
No. 2	308	53	1
No. 3	304	123
No. 4	316	86	4
No. 5	289	96	5
No. 6	213	36	3
No. 7	185	148	1
No. 8	71	274	2
No. 9	131	178
No. 10	117	302
Total	2,172	1,357	21

With the special registration, which will follow, it is predicted that the Democratic majority in the city will be much larger. It is known that a number of white men and women, who were unable to reach the polls Tuesday on account of absence from the city or sickness, are Democrats, and will register as such.

The Democratic workers, both men and women, extend to the women of Paris their thanks for their response to the call for rounding up what will be a safe and the largest Democratic majority that has ever been given to the Democratic cause in this city. It is predicted that the women all over the county will on election day respond to the call just the same as did those in the city on registration day, and that the good old county of Bourbon will in November carry the banner for the largest majority in its history.

Two Pleasant street women, one a Democrat, the other a Republican, were discussing the merits of their respective parties. Finally the Democratic woman asked the Republican neighbor if she knew what the difference was between the Republican and Democratic parties. The lady of Hardin tendency could not guess or solve the problem, when the Democratic woman enlightened her by saying: "Why, its the difference between black and white."

Many amusing things happened when political workers escorted registrants to the polling places. One enthusiastic Democratic worker, a well-known newspaper man, escorted a young lady to Precinct No. 5, at the court house, under the impression that she was a new recruit for Democracy. On arrival she announced herself as a Republican, her father, a close friend of the newspaper man, being one of the Republican registration officers. A Republican worker who had been busy "getting out the vote," called to a neighbor, a well-known merchant, and escorted him, together with his wife, mother-in-law and a friend, to the registration booth in No. 2 precinct with the consciousness of a job well done. They all registered as Democrats, and that particular Republican worker was nearly "gued to death" by his associates.

Two colored men were discussing the result of the registration in a local restaurant Wednesday morning. Referring to the wife of a prominent Democratic worker, who had an active part in the day's work, one asked, "What is this Mrs. T. — who done so much good work for the Democrats?" Being informed he remarked: "Well, sah, she shorely did bring home the bacon for the Democrats." In the postoffice lobby two Democrats were talking over the registration figures when a colored man standing nearby said: "Seuse me, white folks. I doan want to butt in you-all's talk, but you suittinly did made them Republican politicians look cheap yesterday."

E.L. MARCH KILLED IN LEXINGTON BY GEO. ROSE.

In Lexington yesterday afternoon Constable George Rose shot E. L. March, prominent furniture dealer, four times through the head. March was taken to St. Joseph Hospital, where he died at 4:40 o'clock. Rose, after the shooting, walked quietly to police headquarters, where he surrendered himself, and was lodged in a cell. The shooting took place in the Biting Apartments, on South Broadway, where March made his home. Rose refused to make a statement.

March was indicted about two weeks ago by the grand jury on charges made by Mary Margaret Rose, daughter of Thomas Rose, deceased, her mother now being Mrs. R. B. Tucker. The girl, who is fourteen years old, alleged that March had assaulted her when she went into his office in response to a call from him, stating that he had a position for her. The girl is a granddaughter of the man who did the shooting.

Rumors were current in Lexington that March had sought to effect a compromise of the charges by offering a settlement on a basis of $25,000. The details of the alleged assault were not given publicly.

DISTINGUISHED LECTURER AT THE Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Winfield Scott Hall, one of the most distinguished men on the American lecture platform of to-day, delivered two addresses in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, in this city last night, to large and interesting audiences.

Dr. Hall, who is one of the foremost speakers in the country on the subject of sex hygiene and kindred matters, spoke in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium at seven o'clock, to a large delegation of students from the Paris High School, taking for his theme, "The Making Of An Athlete." At eight o'clock, at the same place he addressed a gathering of men on the subject, "Efficient Manhood." Dr. Hall is a former instructor of Mr. C. B. Harrison, the Y. M. C. Owe Their Health To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—overshadowing indeed is the success of this great medicine. Compared with it, all other medicines for women's ills seem to be experiments. Why is it so successful? Simply because of its sterling worth. For over forty years it has had no equal. Women for two generations have depended upon it with confidence.

Thousands of Their Letters are on our files, which prove these statements to be facts, not mere boasting.

Here Are Two Sample Letters:

Mother and Daughter Helped.
Middleburg, Pa.—"I am glad to state that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did me much good when I was 35 years old. I was run down with female trouble and was not able to do anything, could not walk for a year and could not work. I had treatment from a physician but did not gain. I read in the papers and books about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it. The first few bottles gave me relief and I kept on using it until I got better and was able to do my work. This Vegetable Compound also regulated my daughter when she was 15 years old. I can recommend Vegetable Compound as the best medicine I have ever used."—Mrs. W. YERGER, R. 2, Box 21, Middleburg, Pa.

BOARD VOTES TO BUY "OLD KENTUCKY HOME."

"The sun shines bright,
In my old Kentucky home."

Lines immortal in song and story come into a fuller appreciation Tuesday, when, with the sun beaming down beneficially upon the original "Old Kentucky Home" at Federal Hill, near Bardstown, a commission created at the last session of the Legislature to arrange for the purchase of the historic old manor authorized its chairman to accept the option price of $50,000 offered by the present owner.

The commission met at Bardstown and voted unanimously to take up the option which would have expired on November 1. In behalf of the State, members of the commission will arrange to underwrite the initial payment on the old home, announce its action at the next session of the General Assembly, and recommend that that body appropriate funds necessary to consummate the purchase and an additional sum for maintenance. If this is done the commonwealth will come into formal possession of the famous old homestead, all of the furniture in house and 232 acres of ground that makes up the estate.

Members of the "Old Kentucky Home" commission are: Arch H. Pulteney, Bardstown; Judge Robert W. Birmingham, Young E. Allison, A. T. Hart, Louisville; Harry Giovannoli, Lexington, and Mrs. Clement French, Maysville.

For many years the "Old Kentucky Home" has been a mecca for tourists and while the grounds have always been open to visitors, full appreciation of the wonderful old homestead was impossible owing to the restrictions which private ownership necessarily imposed.

Federal Hill is now owned by Mrs. Wade Rowan Frost, who, for many years, has lived in the manor attended by a few faithful servants. She is the daughter of John Rowan, who built the house in 1795. The estate has never been marked in a way to attract tourists, being entirely screened from view by a dense woodland where, according to a woman writer, "luxuriant undergrowth and swaying vines seem tropical in their abundance and where the original mansion of the famous song reveals the soft touch of time and age."

The manor is reached by turning to the left at the court house in Bardstown, down hill, cross bridge, turn to right and up to Federal Hill, where one may glimpse the scenes that inspired Foster to write the folk-song that seems destined to live as long as the commonwealth shall stand.

SOME GOOD COMES FROM WORLD WAR.

Addressing an audience of Louisville women, Mrs. Desha Breckinridge, who has just returned from a trip to Geneva, asserted that there has been only one good thing born out of the World War.

"That is the League of Nations," said Mrs. Breckinridge, whose husband is editor of the Lexington Herald. "It is the duty of every woman to rally to its support."

BOURBON FARMING CONDITIONS

The weather has been very favorable in Bourbon county during the past week, more for the maturing of crops than for the growth. A very light frost acted as a stimulant to the late corn and tobacco to hasten the process of ripening before a real killing frost comes.

Cutting corn, filling silos and cleaning up remnants of the tobacco crop are keeping farmers busy. Ten per cent of the tobacco crop is uncut.

Despite the drought, the wet spell, the rust, wildfire and storms the Bourbon county yield will be at least up to the average. The best corn crop in the history of the county is being put into the silos this week. As soon as the corn crop is in and the tobacco crop out of the way, the attention of the farmers will be turned to the seeding of next year's wheat crop. Very little wheat has been sown yet. A large rye crop has been put out, mostly for fall pastures, and as a cover crop. Pastures continue to be the best known at this time of the year.

Laborers are making $4 and $5 per day and board stripping tobacco. Hundreds of stock hogs are being fed on new corn for meat and shipping purposes. There are no shipments of fat cattle reported. Lambs are scarce. The cattle market is off.

Farmers are paying 35c and 40c per bushel for cutting corn, the scale of prices fixed by the Farm Bureau.

NEW FARM BUREAU PAPER IN FIELD

The "Farm Bureau Advocate," the organ of the Christian County Farm Bureau, has just made its bow to the public. And a precocious youngster it is. The "Advocate" is a four-page paper, chock full of Farm Bureau news and interesting reading for the farmers of its locality. Business men of Christian county have seen the wisdom of patronizing the paper and as a result there are many well-written and well-displayed advertisements. Editorially and typographically, the "Advocate" is equal to any county bureau paper published in this or any other State.

Iron Will

That great strength of mind and body, that exhaustless energy, that IRON WILL that makes a famous merchant out of a humble clerk, a millionaire out of a penniless immigrant, a Lincoln out of a wood-chopper—often come from red blood rich in iron.

"Do you lack power of decision, energy, and stamina? Are your ambitions greater than your strength? You need not be discouraged," says Dr. James Sullivan, formerly of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), New York, and Westchester County Hospital. "By feeding the blood pure organic iron—NUXATED IRON—many a weak, run-down, discouraged man has changed to a red-blooded American, full of force and energy that win success."

Nuxated Iron is used and endorsed by former United States Senators and Members of Congress, and by such world-known men as Paderewski, ex-Premier of Poland. It often increases strength and endurance in two weeks' time.

Hall's Catarrh Medicine

Those who are in a "run down" condition will notice that Catarrh bothers them much more than when they are in good health. This fact proves that while Catarrh is a local disease, it is greatly influenced by constitutional conditions. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE is a Tonic and Blood Purifier, and acts through the blood upon the mucous surfaces of the body, thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal condition.

Aker Wasted Money For 6 Long Years

Wouldn't Give The Good Tanlac Did Him For All Money In The World

"If I had only known about Tanlac sooner I could have saved myself years of suffering and many a dollar besides," declared Eber Aker, of 335 Sixth Avenue, South Charleston, W. Va.

"I tried for six years," continued Mr. Aker, "to get relief from a chronic case of indigestion, but nothing did me one bit of good until I took Tanlac. There is no telling how much money my indigestion cost me, counting what I spent on medicines and the time I lost from work, but it was a good big sum, and I would not swap what a few bottles of Tanlac has done for me for all the money I spent before I found it.

"There was always a feeling like a lump of lead in the pit of my stomach. I had hardly any appetite and the little I did eat disagreed with me and caused sour gas to form on my stomach, bloating me up so tight I could scarcely breathe, and at times such sharp pains went through my chest that I thought each breath would be my last.

"I suffered terribly with dizzy spells, spots came before my eyes and I couldn't stand up. I was so nervous I couldn't get a good night's sleep and I never knew one day whether or not I was going to be able to work the next. I was so weak and felt so bad all the time that I was beginning to lose all hope of ever getting better.

"A friend of mine in Huntington recommended Tanlac to me, saying it had relieved him entirely of his indigestion, so I got a bottle and after the first few doses I began to feel better. By the time I finished my second bottle my appetite was as big as it ever was and I could eat anything and as much as I wanted without a sign of indigestion.

"I kept right on taking it and now I never miss a day from my work, and I not only feel better than I ever thought I could, but have gained twenty pounds in weight besides. My friend did me a great kindness and I hope my statement will influence others to take this medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Paris at the People's Pharmacy.

The men were placed under arrest by Patrolman Robert Lusk on charge of operating an automobile without license. It was claimed they had had manufactured a crude license from a piece of cardboard, which bore the number 8050. This proved the license number of a touring car owned by a Lexington man. The men paid their fines and were released from custody.

WHAT you lose thru baking failure must be added to baking costs—it has to be paid for. Calumet Baking Powder will save you all of that. Because when you use it—there are no failures—no losses. Every baking is sweet and palatable—and stays moist, tender and delicious to the last tasty bite.

That's a big saving—but that isn't all. You save when you buy Calumet and you save when you use it.

Pure in the can—Pure in the baking

CALUMET
"BEST BY TEST"

It is reasonable in cost and possesses more than the ordinary leavening strength. You pay less and use less. You get the most in purity, dependability and wholesomeness.

In every way—it is the best way to keep down baking costs. That is what has made it the world's biggest selling baking powder—has kept it the favorite of millions of housewives for more than thirty years.

Good wholesome bakers can be made only of good materials, no other way, so use only good baking powder and good plain flour (not self-rising flour).

Calumet Sunshine Cake Recipe
1/2 cup of butter, 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar, 2 1/2 cups flour, 1 cup water, 2 level teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder, 1 teaspoon lemon, yolks of 9 eggs. Then mix in the regular way.

THE BEST PROOF

Given By a Paris Citizen

Doan's Kidney Pills were used—they brought benefit.

The story was told to Paris residents.

Time has strengthened the evidence.

Has proven the result lasting.

The testimony is home testimony.

The proof convincing.

It can be investigated by Paris residents.

Mrs. J. T. Martin, 1024 Main street, says: "Kidney trouble came on from a fall, and the results were very severe, causing me more suffering than the fall itself. No one can ever know what I went through at that time, for I suffered awfully. My back ached and pained until I thought it would break in two. Sharp twinges shot through my kidneys and if anyone had hit me in the back with a heavy axe, it couldn't have hurt worse. In one week after using Doan's Kidney Pills, I felt like a different woman, for they fixed me up in fine shape."

AFTER LAPSE OF EIGHT YEARS
Mrs. Martin said: "Doan's Kidney Pills have made a cure for me and it has been permanent."

COVINGTON, KY.—"I have been recommending Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to my patients and personal friends for several years, ever since it restored me to perfect health after a very serious illness with inward trouble. In every instance that I have known women to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for feminine weakness, or if in need of a special tonic during pregnancy, it has never failed in giving the utmost satisfaction. It is a woman's medicine that can be depended upon to relieve nervous conditions, besides building up and strengthening the entire womanly organism. I shall always praise Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription most highly."—MRS. PATTEE ELLIOTT, 1413 Kendall St.

Favorite Prescription should have the full confidence of every woman in America because it contains no alcohol and no narcotic. Doctor Pierce knew, when he first made this standard medicine, that whisky and morphine were injurious, and so he has always kept them out of his remedies. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription can be procured in all drug stores in either fluid or tablet form.

Send 10 cents to Doctor Pierce's Invalids' Hotel in Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package of the tablets.

TO THE PEOPLE OF AMERICA

Every person, sick or well, should know of my marvelous pure herb family medicine—BULGARIAN BLOOD TEA. After a 20-year test I am ready to guarantee to the world that it is the best Blood Purifier and Health Regulator in existence today.

To those who suffer from early old age, stomach, liver, kidney, blood or rheumatic troubles Bulgarian Blood Tea is the one best medicine to relieve and correct these ailments. It is remarkable how quick you will begin to pick up and be your old-time self again.

During the 1918-19-20 influenza epidemics Bulgarian Blood Tea was used by countless thousands of sufferers. They met with marvelous success. Millions of people took it steaming hot to prevent and ward off the disease.

As a general first aid family medicine it has no equal. Every person should have a box constantly on hand for any emergency—to kill colds, allay fevers and guard against influenza, pneumonia or other serious sickness. I sincerely urge all mothers and fathers of families to apply to their druggist for a trial box of Bulgarian Blood Tea.

PARIS, KENTUCKYLIEUT. LOT D. YOUNG'S ADDRESS TO "ORPHAN BRIGADE."

rest; anguish untold, indescribable, unutterable, and none could comfort that dear old heart. I knew one of these grand old mothers in 'Israel,' here in the good county of Bourbon, who gave to the cause of the South her baby boy and his next older brother, my neighbors, playmates and schoolfellow. With the parting prayer of God bless and protect you my dear boys, as she kissed them a farewell goodbye, who fell side by side on the bloody field of Shiloh, their first battle. But who could appease the anguish, who comfort and console the bleeding heart of that grand old mother when she received the sad, the awful message that both her boys had fallen? One of the most painful experiences of my life was when I returned at the close of the war and this grand old mother called upon me to relate the history and story of the fall of her noble boys.

"But how many homes suffered similar sorrows during that awful, that dreadful conflict, how many noble boys were kissed a last farewell, and oh, how sad the story of their fate. Many, almost every battlefield of the South could furnish similar sad and heartrending experiences. I knew an instance down in Georgia, that of Isaac Reeves, of Atlanta, who gave to the cause eight sons, five of whom were killed in battle, the remaining three wounded and disabled for life. Another instance in point is related by my old comrade and friend, Sergeant Knox.

That of Mrs. Williams, of Richland, Mississippi, who gave to the cause her three sons and her stepson, her all, and all of whom perished on the battlefield. Oh, the horrors of war, and whilst seemingly blasphemous, how pertinent and forcefully true General Sherman's definition of war.

And oh, that some of our would-be statesmen of America could hear and heed the pleading voice of the omnipotent and cease their narrow, selfish wrangling for peace and power. Please pardon this digression, the opportunity is irresistably

tempting to one who has seen the horrors of war in all its hideousness. But who could appease the anguish, who assuage the sorrows and comfort the bleeding hearts of the grand old mothers and fathers?

"And yet, I fear that many now living give these matters this history, which so nearly concerns themselves and their own country but little thought when contemplating the stupendous tragedies that have recently occurred on the other side of the ocean and makes any reference to these incidents to this history seem tame and insignificant in comparison. But remember, my friends, my fellow Kentuckians, that we 'Old Orphans,' too, have seen something of war and its horrors. So far as I am informed, not many battle were fought in the great world war, with all of their improved instruments of modern warfare in which a loss of more than 50 per cent. was sustained, within less than thirty minutes, as was the case of this little band of Kentuckians. Your own countrymen, your own kinsmen, in the death trap at Dallas, May 28, 1864.

"Pardon my partiality, my love for these old comrades and this feeble complimentary allusion and comparison, but this little band of Kentuckians (of whom all Kentucky seems justly proud) has a history that shines with a luster that rivals the glory of Caesar's '10th Legion,' Napoleon's 'Old Guard,' or the famous 'Light Brigade.' At the beginning five thousand, at the ending two hundred and forty, less than forty of whom were without battle scars. What a glorious record! What a bloody sacrifice and how comparatively few returned. And why should not these few surviving old heroes be proud of this record? Why should not Kentucky be proud of it? From the fullness of my heart I am tempted to ask, why should not these few surviving old veterans, a mere remnant of whom survive, and a majority of whom are now before you, rejoice, to have been the companions and followers of such grand and noble spirits as Albert Sidney Johnson, Buckner, Brackinridge, Preston, Hood, Hanson, Helm, Hawes, Lewis, Tiglman, Trabue, Hunt, Wickliffe, Cofer, Caldwell, Moss, Monroe, McDowell, McKendrie, Bramblett, Cobb, Graves, Kentuckians and, all more than four thousand other grand and noble spirits, whose deeds of courage, heroism and sacrifice makes the history of this immortal little band. To have been the companions and followers of these noble heroes and patriots and share with them the hardships, trials and dangers they encountered, likewise the honor and glory they achieved is the proudest claim of our lives to which we refer with pride and admiration and say to the young men of Kentucky, that these deeds, this history illustrates and exemplifies your fathers' record. Cherish and hold them sacred, for they were acquired by the best blood that ever coursed the veins of the Anglo-Saxon.

"In looking into the eyes of these few surviving hoary-headed old veterans memory carries me back to these perilous and exciting times and I see them through the vista of manhood's prime, ever ready to spring into the battles breach and with maddened 'shout and Rebel yell,' grapple with the enemy and if so decreed, die for the cause we loved so well. But alas, the Monarch, 'Time,' has exercised his prerogative and only a few are left tottering on the shore.

"But here was a band of noble youths, a veritable embodiment of Kentucky manhood and chivalry; whose hearts were filled with lofty pride, with noble ambition; the seed corn of the Confederacy, according to President Lincoln; whose ideals were Kentucky's traditional glory and renown, who seldom misstepped in the drill, who never faltered on the field.

"It was not for the wage, not for money nor for conquest, that they fought, suffered and sacrificed, but the Southland and her cause, Kentucky and her unrivaled fame, her landscape beauty, her brooks and rills, her pastures green, her heroes history and untarnished sheen, her lovely maidens, her stalwart men, this was our inspiration, these our incentives to deeds of daring with victory or death the battle cry.

"But memory portrays also many thrilling incidents and exciting scenes among which are Fort Donelson, Shiloh, Vicksburg, Bator Rouge, Jackson, Hartsville, Murfreesboro, Chattanooga, Chickamauga, Dalton, Resaca, Dallas, the death trap, Kenesaw Mountain, Pine Mountain, New Hope, Peachtree, Intrenchment, Utoy Creek, the place of sweet revenge for the death trap, Atlanta, Jonesboro, Columbia and almost a score of other fields attest their courage and valor and the inscription upon their monument in the temple of fame, and I am tempted to exclaim, 'Rejoice ye gray-haired old veterans these are your jewels, these your trophies.'

"Do we arrogate to ourselves and Kentucky honors to which we are not entitled, who gave to the world Abraham Lincoln, Jefferson Davis, Albert Sidney Johnston and the Orphan Brigade, Kentucky, the land where the Creator seems to have finished his wondrous work of creation when the morning stars first sang together and Jehovah proclaimed it good, wonderful land, wonderful people, unexcelled, unequalled. And it is well that the historian, Shaler, a noble and chivalrous enemy, should have selected the history of this little band of Kentuckians to illustrate the military character and prowess of the American volunteer, and well may every true and loyal son of Kentucky say to the world, 'These are some of Kentucky's offerings upon the altar of glory and renown, in the hour of our country's greatest distress and peril, these are some of her contributions to the world's history of man's renown, courage and valor. We do not challenge the record of others, but we bring these offerings as illustrative and characteristic of our 'Old Kentucky Home and her people.' And it is but fitting that these good people of the city of Paris and Bourbon county, a number of whose noble sons imperiled and sacrificed their lives upon these memorable fields, some of whose names are engraved upon yonder monument, should once more have the opportunity to mingle with and to grasp the hands of these few surviving old veterans, and look into the eyes that gleamed defiance in the battle rage, whose deeds in the death grapple proclaimed them true Kentuckians. It is in like manner gratifying to these old veterans to see and to know that these good people are willing to pay us such spontaneous homage from their noble and generous hearts, and extend to us such lavish, such boundless hospitality and good cheer.

"But, how could it be otherwise, for this is but typical of dear old Kentucky, we all love so well, and about which we love to sing, dear Old Kentucky, of which we old 'Orphans,' far from home, so often dreamed, sung and wept, when on the toilsome march beneath the blistering Southern sun and in the dreary and cheerless camp of the malarious swamp. Dear old Kentucky, toward whose green pastures our eyes were ever turned and for which our weary hearts always yearned. Grand old Kentucky, the land of Boone and Kenton, Clay and Crittenden, Breckinridge and Marshall, the land of milk and honey, the home of the beautiful, the gentle and lovely, rejoice, again and again, ye noble old heroes, Kentucky's history and her thousand charms was then our song and story, Kentucky and her glorious renown is still our watchword and benediction.

"Whose heart can but throb with pride and thrill with joy and admiration when contemplating these glorious surroundings and indulging these inspiring thoughts, thrilling recollections. Old comrades, now as the flickering rays of life grow dim, let your hearts rejoice in gratitude and thanksgiving for your history is a legacy of glory, acclaimed and envied, by the world. My dear old comrades, as these happy greetings will soon draw to a close and the hour for the last parting, for some of us at least, will soon come, no more will we listen to the bugle's call and the command, 'fall into line,' to right or left dress, nor stiffen the muscles or steady the nerves for the impending conflict, no more respond to the boom of the signal gun and join the mad shout of the awful charge; the last roll call has been ordered and has been answered by all—but few of us, the last good-bye spoken, at last and beyond on the everlasting plains will the assembly call be sounded and the order of the Great Commander be given, 'Fall into line ye heroes of the Orphan Brigade,' your Heavenly Commander will lead you, not to the battle, but to a glorious and everlasting peace on the plains of eternal rest; and where war shall be no more. So farewell, my dear 'Old Comrades,' good-bye, good-bye."
